

Deborha Caputo FNP-BC

Ms. Debbie Caputo has an expertise in the care and management of patients with chronic digestive and liver disease. In addition to co-managing the medical needs of all of the practice's Crohn's and colitis patients, she fills many other roles including educator, social advocate and cheerleader for all her patients. Debbie is active with the Crohn's and Colitis Support Group in Rockland County and played a pivotal role in the launching of the Rockland County "Take Steps" program in 2011. She has been a member of the Crohn's and Colitis Foundation for many years. She attends the annual conference on the Advances in IBD and Digestive Disease Week in order to bring the newest therapies to her patients. She has been a Study Coordinator for numerous clinical research trials and frequently provides seminars on the management of IBD for the Nurse Practitioner and Physician Assistant Professional communities in the County.

Debbie has an Associate's Degree from Rockland Community College, a Bachelor's Degree in Education from the College of Mount St. Vincent and a Master's Degree as a family Nurse Practitioner from Pace University. She was an art history teacher before changing careers and becoming a healthcare professional. She joined the clinical staff at Digestive Disease Associates of Rockland (DDAR) as a Family Nurse Practitioner in 1996. Over the past two decades she has collaborated with the physicians at DDAR to provide compassionate and state of the art medical care.
